

WHAT HEIMAT SOUNDS LIKE!

“Heimat” might be the most discussed word in these days. It’s a word only existing in German language and it’s meaning can be translated as the place and culture where you feel at home. If anyone gets asked about his or her “Heimat” you can easily show a picture of your native country or your home town. But what does Heimat actually sound like?

The Sound & Culture Project „Heimat“ is dealing with exactly that question.

Therefore we are looking for participants of any culture or country, who are willing to give a piece of their “Heimat” and who wants to be a part in a cultural project.

TASK:

First of all, every participants is dealing independently with the question of „What does Heimat sound like, to me?“. Within that process every participant is asked to consider a way of what his/her “Heimat” could sound like and how you can realize this sound with things of your today’s surroundings.

After that all participants will record their own sound of Heimat in a recording studio. Together with our sound engineer we will work on your individual noise.

These sounds and noises can be out of the simplest nature but they should be prepared very well in advance. All materials for recordings, everyone has to bring on their own, because in this way you can realize the best personal sound.

Together, we also like to prepare and talk about how your piece of Heimat could sound like.

The recordings take place in January 2019. Every participant is getting their own personal recording of Heimat. All of the results are going to be exhibited between May and August 2019 in a public area in Hannover.

You do not need any special skills in dealing with sound. Everyone who has an idea of Heimat can be a member of this project and will be very welcome.

If you are now interested or if there are any further questions, feel free to get in touch with us.

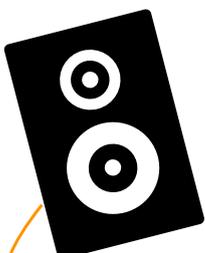

We are looking forward listening to your ideas!
